Dear [REDACTED]

Thanks (again) for writing back I really appreciate it. I can't recall doing anything else that winter break. And I saw the movie birdbox (you probably already have seen it). I did get hit by a polar vortex we were out of school for the rest of the week! But my teachers didn't teach me about it yet, but I did watch the super bowl but I didn't really root for any team because one makes it all the time and one made it because a controversial call so :(I have wanted to be a scientist for a long time. I especially wanted to be an inventor and help the problem littering also a space theorist. I doubt that any of my friends want to be in the same area jobs as me probably my best friend (maybe) .

My personal life has been fine I got reconnected with my PS2 and I've been watching a sports documentary. I have just finished my science planet project about uranus. Today I'm learning about optical engineering and egypt. We are about to have spring break (aren't we supposed to have spring break in spring???) . They say because late easter and the state test. Also we saw a movie that my cousin made. It's called sincerely brenda.

What did you overcome in your life? What I have overcome is some of my struggles of autism and used it to my advantage. Now look where I am now in the 5 GRADE GIFTED! What have you've been doing lately? Can I see your face in one of your letters if your comfortable with that? Are you working on any other project lately?Have you ever had a pet? And what's your favorite food to cook? You are a great scientist and remember that.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]

Bonus: Who is your favorite scientist?
